Inland Waterways Committee offices

We too are taking measure to prevent the spread of the corona virus. This means that we have changed the way we provide our services at the offices in Schoten and Evergem.

Our offices are physically closed, which means that you cannot access the waiting room and you cannot speak to us in person. During office hours you can call us, and we will be available to speak to you. You can also always send an email to binnenvaartcommissie@vlaamsewaterweg.be

Documents that need to be processed should be put in an envelope, together with a completed form (see annex), and deposited in the box provided, during opening hours, or in the letterbox. If you have specific questions, please feel free to call us. In accordance with the corona virus prevention measures laid down by the government, we will observe a safety period before dealing with your documents. In practice this means that we will call you to let you know when the documents may be collected and that this will be a minimum of 2 days after the documents have been deposited. For the time being we will not accept payments by bank card (bancontact). You will receive a bill for the amount owing.

Please note: no sailing time statements are currently being issued.
